Project	High Security Facility: WindowShield
----------------	---

As a high security company, this particular customer requires a high level of protection on its sites.

As part of a recent refurbishment and in line with strict internal security regulations, our customer looked to Clear Image to provide a solution to protect the windows of one of its facilities. The conventional choice of metal bars or grilles would have looked out of place in this setting and would have drawn unwelcome attention to the building.

Clear Image’s WindowShield proved the perfect solution. With a special mesh construction, WindowShield allows building occupants to see out clearly whilst providing high level protection on the outside of the windows, and letting in the light. With tamper proof fixings, the system is extremely secure.

The result is a subtle installation providing high level security without the usual aesthetic compromises. In this instance the casing was painted to the exact RAL number of the exterior of the windows allowing the framing to blend in.

The company’s Security Manager comments: “We were in the market looking to find a product that offered a number of options to suit our business requirements. In short this was window protection that offered the physical protection we require, not to make the premises appear overly protected and not to draw attention to our premises, but also be of appearance that suited the location and surroundings. In short the ‘Window Shield’ that was presented to us offered and delivered exactly what we required- so much so we are looking to further use the product at other locations around the country.”

Neil Alexander, Managing Director of Clear Image Scotland adds: “This company trusts Clear Image to take care of their security and that means finding new ways to meet their demanding requirements. We are always looking for creative solutions to our customers’ problems and work very closely with them to ensure we deliver solutions which are right for their specific needs. WindowShield is a good example of Clear Image identifying a solution to a particular problem. We are so confident in the product that if a window protected by WindowShield is broken, we will replace the window free of charge.”
